

Missional Messenger

ISSUE SEVEN

JULY 2025

My daughter was very anxious about everything going on in the world. Scared of what's next, she was panicking over all the unknowns of life and our world today. I was reminded as we talked about all that so many of us have lived through. All the uncertainties and all the events we've all seen. Every time, though, God has been faithfully God. There are so many uncertainties in life. Who knows what fresh new worries await us tomorrow? But, I know that God will be the same as He's always been. He is seated on His throne, He will be faithful still, His mercies will be new every morning. He is just and He is wise. I take comfort in the old saying, "I don't know what tomorrow holds but I know Who holds tomorrow." Our God is good.

Your BCM is wrapping up an action-packed June of mission trips to Canada and Alaska. Nathan will soon be sharing more about that, but I know the gospel was shared with many, needs were met, and a number even gave their lives to Christ as a result. For some of the BCM-ers, this was their first mission experience. You may not get to see it like I do, but God is doing something awesome in your BCM. I want to encourage you to come and see. Here are three suggestions how you can join in: 1) Come to a BCM night. You are invited to come see the BCM in action after the semester starts. They let me come so I know they'll embrace you coming too! 2) Sign up to provide one of the BCM lunches. Whether you can provide a full lunch or a partial, we want you to come and serve and meet the many students who come through. One international student must have thanked me a dozen times last year, expressing her wonder at the unparalleled kindness she experienced meeting the people serving each week. 3) Invite the BCM to your church one Sunday. they have wonderful testimonies, songs, and (in my opinion) some budding preachers who would be a great blessing to your people and to them at the same time.

I just want to thank you for your prayers and support of our BCM. You are a blessing.
